

One license per market per person - either TV or radio. This maximizes free speech - no one person is allowed to monopolize the airwaves in any market, yet still are free to have their say in every market across the country. If written correctly, I expect that the courts would uphold this policy.

No more oligopoly of the commercial airwaves. No more hogging of scarce resources by the wealthy few corporations